The Department of Economics and Finance of the University of Bari, in collaboration with the International Inequalities Institute at the London School of Economics, is organizing the international conference “Equality of Opportunity and Intergenerational Mobility: A Global Perspective”, which will take place in Bari on June 6th and 7th, 2024.

The purpose of the conference is to bring together scholars from different disciplines to share their current research on issues related to the measurement of equality of opportunity and intergenerational transmission of advantages.

We invite submissions of theoretical and empirical papers relating to:

- Inequality of opportunity
- Intergenerational mobility
- Intergenerational transmission of education

We also welcome contributions on related topics like discrimination, gender inequalities, inheritance and wealth inequality.

The confirmed keynote speakers are:

Miles Corak (City University of New York)

Alessandra Fogli (Federal Reserve Minneapolis)

Steven N. Durlauf (University of Chicago)

During the conference the first version of the database “GEOM: Global Estimates of Opportunity and Mobility” will be launched. This project consists of an online and free to access platform with estimates of inequality of opportunity for more than 70 countries around the world.
